After a successful career in public relations, Mindy switched her focus to freelance/creative writing. From June through January, she coaches students on their college application essays (and year-round for masters/PhD/JD applicants). She writes regularly for The Boston Globe and has published essays in The Boston Globe Magazine and "Chicken Soup for the Soul" books.

In 2009, Mindy opened "The Place" to inspire others to write their stories and achieve their writing goals in a supportive environment.

In 2011, Mindy opened The Place for Words Press and published The Ice Cream Stand & Other Stories & Poems by 21 Writers.

In 2013, The Place for Words Press published Judith Adele Yarbrough's novella, Friends Forever in My Heart.

Both books are available on Amazon.com.

What is The Place for Words?

It is an inspirational space for writers to meet their writing goals!

It is a place where high school seniors can work on their college application essay(s) with Mindy's one-on-one guidance via CollegeApplicationEssayCoach.com. She helps folks locally as well as online/via Skype anywhere in the country—and the world.

It is a place where Mindy enthusiastically helps encourage others who have always wanted to write, and helps them publish essays or books to meet their goals. She especially seeks out those who want to write but think they can't. (She'll happily prove them wrong!)

The Place for Words online is also where Mindy shares her freelance and creative writing!
